Cookies Policy

Spycon Security Ltd

Our website uses cookies to distinguish you from other users. This helps us provide you with a better browsing experience and allows us to improve our site. By continuing to use our website, you consent to our use of cookies in accordance with this policy.

What Are Cookies?

A cookie is a small file of letters and numbers that we store on your browser or the hard drive of your computer, provided you agree. Cookies contain information that is transferred to your device to help us recognize you and enhance your browsing experience.

Types of Cookies We Use

1. Strictly Necessary Cookies
   These cookies are essential for the operation of our website. They enable you to log in to secure areas, use our enquiry forms, and access other basic site functions.
2. Analytical/Performance Cookies
   These allow us to count visitors and analyse how they move around our site. This helps us improve how our website works, ensuring you can easily find the information you need.
3. Functionality Cookies
   These recognise you when you return to our site, allowing us to personalise content, greet you by name, and remember your preferences (such as your preferred language or location).
4. Targeting Cookies
   These record your visit to our website, the pages you have viewed, and the links you have clicked. We use this information to make our content and advertising more relevant to your interests. We may share this information with trusted third parties for this purpose.

Third-Party Cookies

Please note that third parties, including advertising networks and analytics providers, may also use cookies over which we have no direct control. These are generally analytical or targeting cookies.

Managing Cookies

You can block cookies by adjusting your browser settings to refuse all or some cookies. However, please be aware that blocking essential cookies may affect the functionality and accessibility of our website. Except for essential cookies, all cookies will expire within 2 years.
